

Future Husband's new single, "Good Company," is set to release on December 1st under

Terra Records.

Recorded in a unique sleep-away camp-style studio in The Netherlands, this indie-anthem, dedicated to the power of self, marks a significant milestone as Future Husband's first independent release.

Future Husband is a musical collective driven by enduring friendships and shared creative passion. The quartet—comprising Adura Sulaiman, Ivar Otten, Kike Zwagerman, and Gino Buragevic—crafts a unique sonic experience, seamlessly blending cinematic atmospheres, vibrant guitars, and expert synthesis. With nearly a decade of shared stages, Future Husband has left its mark on venues from the Best Kept Secret Festival to the vibrant Peckham Audio London. Their music, a heartfelt expression of life's varied emotions, is intricately woven into past projects, including the indie pop gem Feng Suave, the punk group SuperEgo, and Eurovision star Joan Franka.

With gaze towards the future, anticipate a new album and a fresh and exciting glow up!

Praise for Future Husband:

"While her music takes on a certain kind of ethereal and existential quality, Future Husband's storytelling feels rooted in a deeply real and vulnerable space."

- Atwood Magazine

"There are no such things as gloomy days when the music of Future Husband exists." - Earmilk

"Adura's tender voice enchants from the first note and provides a fragility that can also radiate a certain power. With Future Husband, the Low Countries have thus gained an exciting project with international allure." - Dansende Beren